

Tye Minckler

Tye Minckler received his doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania in higher education management in 2016 and has two degrees from the University of Washington – an MBA, Finance, and a BS, Molecular and Cellular Biology. He is also a Certified Management Accountant (CMA) and a Certified Educational Facilities Professional (CEFP).

He has served as the Vice Chancellor for Finance and Administration for the University of Washington Tacoma, from 2017 to 2020. Previously, he was the Vice President and CFO at Tarleton State University, a member of the Texas A&M System, for five years.

Dr. Minckler has been responsible for institutional support functions such as accounting and budgeting, human resources, facilities, information technology, and safety/compliance for most of his career across several industries. These responsibilities include capital budgeting and related strategic planning.

Minckler spent 8 years at the UW School of Medicine and 5 years at the Medical College of Wisconsin, where he oversaw research facilities. Prior to his experience in higher education, he was CFO of one of the fastest growing start-up technology service firms in the country that grew to $15 million in 4 years, and CFO of a publicly held restaurant and retail chain, both in Seattle.

A trusted leader who has earned the respect of faculty and staff, he is committed to continuously learning and is service oriented, innovative, collaborative, and dedicated to bettering society through environmental and social sustainability.

He claims to enjoy golf in his spare time but may not understand the meaning of enjoy.
